ATL Cryocooler Service

This service contract does not cover the regular cryocooler service necessary for your ATL160 (although you can allocate your included service days to this). The recommended service interval for the coldhead on your ATL160 is 10,000 hours (approximately one year) and the recommended service interval for your compressor is 30,000 hours (approximately 3 ½ years). A typical cryocooler service takes one day of work, plus travel time.
